

Original Post A

I showed up to a restaurant today for a collaboration and was completely disrespected by the chef. He made comments about my follower count and treated me like I wasn't important enough to be there. I've never felt so embarrassed. Do better.

Original Post B

Just checked out JL Patisserie in Scottsdale, Arizona and I'm not impressed. I don't mind spending $10 on a pastry if it's really good, but you cannot use fake ingredients. That bright green pistachio is unnatural. Also the coffee was super sour and acidic and the quiche crust was paper-thin.

