

Round 2

"THE DIGITAL DIVIDE"

PLAINTIFF'S CONFIDENTIAL FACTS: The Quiltys

Rowan's parents believe Mustang High has treated their child unfairly because they are not one of the many very wealthy families in the area and have never donated to the school. They feel Cameron Callahan receives special treatment and accommodation from the school because of the Callahans' very generous and continuous donations. They have heard rumors that the Callahans plan to fund a new science lab for the school and have offered to make a substantial donation to the school in order to make this go away.

Rowan and the Quiltys want this case to be referred to the Cyberbullying Board for a full investigation. They believe Rowan has followed the policy by expressing concern to Richfield and then raising those concerns to the Dean. They would like to see Cameron disciplined in a public way so that the other students involved will also stop harassing Rowan.

Additionally, the experience has been so troubling that Rowan's weight has significantly changed, public speaking is no longer an option, and Rowan has become incredibly withdrawn at school and at home. The Quiltys arranged for Rowan to begin working with a psychologist as a direct result of the ongoing cyberbullying.